The NAFCD + NBMDA Annual Convention is Coming to Dallas

CHICAGO – The 2021 NBMDA Annual Convention is taking place at the Hilton Anatole in Dallas, Texas. After having to conduct last year's event from a digital distance, both associations look forward to welcoming hundreds of distribution professionals in person.

Throughout the three-day event, attendees will have the opportunity to educate themselves on trends impacting the industry, share best practices, deepen their relationships and engage with potential new sources of supply.

"We can hardly wait to reunite with our members and provide them with a safe space to learn about the latest in supply chain management, economic trends, leadership, marketing strategy and effective use of technology," said Kevin Gammonley, Executive Vice President of NAFCD and NBMDA.

In keeping attendee's wellbeing as a top-of-mind priority, NAFCD and NBMDA have put various protocols in place. In accordance with the Dallas mask mandate, all individuals will be required to cover their face while in public, indoor settings. Regardless of vaccination status and/or changes in local guidelines, this policy will persist.
